Could the destroyer see his victims, we thought, as we gazed at the fair young wife in her agony, would not his heart, however hard, be agonized, and cry to heaven for pardon? These infants one of a faw months in her. Those infants, one of a few months, in her and there ain't but one room in the he arms; and one two years of age clinging to her skirts, vainly endeavoring to appease his hunger with a dry crust of bread, which in better days his father's menials the world is 713,000,000 pounds. would have thought unfit for even his dogs. What remains for the child, whose home was one of luxury, the fast young man; a pauper's burial, and public charity for the young and delicately nurtured States is the greatest consumer, to the wife and mother; and for him, the murdere! the gallows or the penitentiary.

They may not belong to the butterfly ranks of fashion, but they are none the The present age is justly termed a less capable of appreciating that kind of close contact with them, and try the experiment of living with them, in the most thorough manner. In other words, we shall have them as our house servants—not by the hundreds, but by the thousands. In ten years from now, we make bold to predict, the sweet Milesian accent will cease to be prevalent in our city kitchens and laundries, and "pigeon English" will be the common substitute.

Our reasons are very plain. We are a never ending eternity in which they can have a never ending eternity in which they can have a never ending eternity in which they can have a never ending eternity in which they can have a never ending eternity in which they can have a never ending eternity in which they can have a never ending eternity in which they can have a never ending eternity in which they can have a never ending eternity in which they can have a never ending eternity in which they can have a fair which they can hard-have as a tree falleth, so it lieth, for a fast lived and sinful life. Our remarks are designed for those persons who ignore the highest moral, social and religious virtues, priding themselves upon being classed among the fast young men and laundries, and "pigeon English" will be the common substitute.

Our reasons are very plain. We are afflicted now with about the worst, most useless, and most independent class of house servants tolerated in the civilized world. They are yearly becoming less erviceable and more exacting. They are as much inferior to our house servants of ten years ago as the latter were to the servants of whose superior qualities our old Knickerbockers descant so enthusiastically.
